COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

There are still twelve people who have not paid their 1961 personal property tax. Only three of these are over $10.00. A final reminder is being sent to these twelve people and then the bills will be given to the sheriff if they remain unpaid.

The town crew has been cleaning culverts and replacing some that are rusted out. A culvert will have to be put on the Grover Hill road that was rebuilt in 1961. It didn't seem necessary when the road was rebuilt but the seepage from the hill is more than the ditch can handle.

A problem that has been occurring more frequently the last couple of weeks is plugged sewer lines. Most of the time when a sewer starts backing up into a cellar the homeowner calls the town garage or the town office and says that the sewer is plugged without first running a sewer snake down into their sewer line. It is much easier for the homeowner to check their own sewer line than it is to dig up the street to see if the main sewer is plugged.

Any homeowner can borrow a sewer snake from the town garage or call a plumber to check their sewer line. Where there are manholes the town crew can check the main sewer much easier. If there is a manhole the town will check the main but where there isn't a manhole the line from house to the main sewer should be checked first.

Actually this is a small problem compared to the one facing the town concerning the pollution of the river. The town officers hope to start preliminary investigations along with the other towns along the river and the Water Improvement Commission. This is to avert the possibility of the federal government stepping in and making the towns and industries along the river stop using it in a short period of time. The river will have to be cleaned up but it is better to set your own schedule than have the federal government on your neck with their restrictions and time schedules.

Michael Houlihan

Thanksgiving dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Conrad at their farm in Newry will be: Mrs. Leona Flint, Miss Carol Flint, Miss Julia B. Brown, and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carroll.

Miss Helen Varner called on her mother, Mrs. Naomi Varner, at the Norway Nursing Home, on Sunday, it being Mrs. Varner's 86th birthday. She was remembered by cards, money and a birthday cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tikaner will have as guests on Thanksgiving Mrs. Emma Van Den Kerckhoven, Mr. and Mrs. Donald James, Cathy and Dawn, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Tikaner, Neil and Donald, and Mrs. Victor Ollikainen, South Paris.

Guests of Mrs. Abbie Brown Thanksgiving Day will be: Mr. and Mrs. Blake MacKay, Susan, Blaine and Sandra; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brown, Julia and Vivian; Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Nancy and Owen, Miss Arlene Brown, Newbury, Mass., and Miss Linda Brown, a student at Burdett College, Boston.

MAINE GAME WARDENS OUT IN FORCE OVER THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS

Chief Warden Maynard F. Marsh, Maine Fish and Game Dept., says that the Warden Service will marshal all its forces over the Thanksgiving holidays, in the interests of hunting safety.

"Wardens will pay particular attention," Marsh says, "to enforcement of safety regulations and will be on the lookout for any violations."

The chief warden mentioned carrying loaded guns in automobiles as one violation his men will be especially alert for. They'll be looking, too, for parties of more than six hunters driving deer; the law limits to six the number that may take part in a drive.

Another not uncommon law violation that will be under close scrutiny is that of hunting for deer after already shooting one. Marsh says that violators will be facing mandatory fine of $100 upon conviction on this charge.

The wardens will also be ready to point out any unsafe hunting practices that are not necessarily law violations. "Calling attention to dangerous or unsafe gun handling," the chief warden says, "may well save one or more shooting accidents. We're going to do all we can to keep the accident total as low as possible."

NUCLEAR DANGERS EXPLAINED

Due to the present tensions in world affairs and the possibility of the use of weapons which can produce far-reaching effects, the local Civil Defense feels that it would be well to review information pertaining to the nature of the dangers to which we in Bethel might be exposed, in order that we may diminish the dangers of radioactive fallout.

When a nuclear weapon explodes, components of the bomb are radioactive, and some of the earth or other material in close vicinity are also made radioactive. The large particles will quickly fall back to earth, but the smaller particles will be borne by the winds for considerable distances, thus contaminating large areas far removed from the initial blast. These are in the form of a dust, which can be so small as to go unnoticed. These dust particles give off radiation which can be harmful unless we are aware of their presence and know something of their nature so that we may take preventive measures.

Radiation can be detected only by special instruments, such as a Geiger counter, and your local Civil Defense Radiological Unit is equipped with instruments for detecting and measuring the presence and intensity of radioactive fallout. With these they can give warning to take protective measures and can inform when such measures are no longer necessary.

The protective measures that should be taken upon hearing the take-cover signal are essentially to put as much material between you and this radioactive dust as possible. The cellar is probably the best location since the earth and concrete are good shields and you are farthest from the dust which may have settled on the roof. Windows in the cellar should be covered with sand-

SCD Supervisors to Host Legislators

The supervisors of the Oxford County Soil Conservation District will be hosts to the legislators of the county at their November meeting. The meeting will be held at the District office, 3rd floor of the Masonic building in South Paris, on Nov. 27 at 8 p. m.

The purpose of the meeting is to explain to the legislators the proposed revision of the enabling act under which Soil Conservation Districts operate. Merrill Payson of Warren, vice president of the State Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors, will explain the proposed revision to the legislators with the assistance of the Oxford County supervisors.

The revisions of the present District Law will be presented to the next session of the state legislature.

The Maine Soil Conservation District law is published in the Revised Statutes of Maine, Volume 1, Chapter 34. The original law was enacted in 1914.

The Maine State Soil Conservation Committee, and the state's 15 soil conservation districts feel that broadened legislation is needed in order that Maine may take full advantage of recent developments in resource use. As a result of exhaustive study, a proposed new law has been prepared. It was written with the cooperation of Maine's Attorney General and he declares it to be in good form.

In brief, the new law, if enacted, would provide these improvements:

Increased representation of Soil Conservation Districts on the State Soil Conservation Committee.

A full time Executive Secretary to coordinate the efforts of all districts.

Authority to administer works of improvement for flood prevention, group drainage, irrigation, water supply for municipal and industrial use, wildlife, and recreational development.

Increased financial participation by the State of Maine.

Broadened authority to acquire property.

Authority to levy assessments in accordance with the wishes of the local people who will benefit.

COUNTY OIL MEN TO ELECT OFFICERS AT RUMFORD MEETING

The Oxford-Franklin County Petroleum Council will hold its biennial meeting and election of officers at the Hotel Rumford in Rumford on Monday evening, Nov. 26, according to Roger Luce of Bethel, Council Chairman. A dinner at 6:30 p. m. will precede the meeting.

The Council, whose membership is made up of wholesale distributors, service station dealers, and heating oil jobbers, has as its principal aim to provide information to fellow oil men, government officials, and the general public, Luce stated.

A. E. Willis of Portland, a member of the state executive committee of the Maine Petroleum Association, will outline the role of the County Council in the overall statewide program, Luce stated, while Leroy T. Snowdon, Association Executive Secretary from Augusta, will review current national, state, and local issues of importance to Maine oil men. He will also present an illustrated talk, "It's Your Business," stressing the importance of an active interest in good government.

bags or by earth. If there is no cellar, a room on the lowest floor in the center of the building is best.

Since the duration of dangerous radiation may vary it is essential that food and water enough for two weeks be on hand in sealed containers. First aid kits, general household medicines, a battery operated radio for receiving Conelrad, and flashlights are other items that should be readily available.

HIGHWAY NIGHT PATROL BEGINS NINTH SEASON WATCHING STATE ROADS

The State Highway Commission's night patrol began its ninth season Saturday keeping watch on the condition of about 1,800 miles of the state's most-traveled roads, including 54 miles of interstate highway.

The SHC's night patrol is on duty every night in the week during the winter months ready to alert the plowing and sanding crews if needed. Patrolmen also carry enough sand in their trucks to cover short, icy sections of road in dangerous locations.

Flashing amber lights are installed on the patrol trucks as an added safety feature.

During their tour of duty, patrols contact their division offices by radio at least once each hour, through the night, reporting weather and road condition. This information is passed on by the division offices to the department's headquarters office in Augusta every two hours.

Rumford Division Office is at 36 Exchange Street, telephone 364-3391. Office is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Late state-wide reports are available after 6:00 a. m. and 10:00 p. m. every day of the week. Reports are available on roads that are patrolled in this division at any time, day or night.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Ames will have as Thanksgiving Day guests, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Stiekney, Peter and Chris, Salem, N. H.; Lee Carver, Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Davis and family.

"Cocktail?"

(He: "She'll think I'm a sad sack if I say no!")
(She: "I don't want it, but what will be think?")

Do you have to drink, when you're out on a date or a party?

You might think so, to read some advertisements or listen to some radio shows.

Millions of dollars in liquor propaganda are saturating the public with the idea that drinking is socially indispensable.

Smartly dressed men and women, in lavish surroundings, eagerly consume the advertiser's product. Handsome athletes, beautiful girls, even grandmothers try hard to push the public into believing that everyone drinks. Text and commercials imply that alcohol is safe as milk.

But what are the facts?

Actually, liquor is far from the beneficent product that its manufacturers would have you believe. Most people, including those who drink, know that alcohol often causes irreparable harm. It is a depressant, not a stimulant. One out of twenty drinkers becomes an alcoholic.

Why not determine your attitude toward drinking from your viewpoint—not from the viewpoint of those who profit by what you drink? It is a fact that alcohol cannot help you attain health, happiness, or financial security. It is a fact that alcohol can easily cause you to miss out on these. Why be misled by propaganda to the contrary?

For the fact is, again, that drinking is not essential socially, or otherwise. You can get along fine without it. And you need never hesitate to say, "No, thanks, I don't drink." You'll be thought the better of, and feel better, for saying so.

You can get along fine without it!

MAINE INDUSTRY EYES CALIFORNIA CONTRACTS

Industry in Maine is to get a larger share of the nation's missile and space business.

Spearheading this move is a nine man task force which recently visited Aerojet-General Corporation in Sacramento, Calif. It was the first stop in a week-long tour of California missile plants for the business representatives who learned first hand how their firms can get more West Coast missile money.

The California trip was an outgrowth of the mid-October visit to Maine by officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and leading firms in the missile and space field, including Aerojet-General. The visit to Sacramento was arranged through the cooperation of the Department of Economic Development of Maine.

During the Sacramento visit, the industrial leaders were briefed on procurement policies and procedures by Bob McLeary and William Mullock, Managers of Purchasing for Aerojet's Liquid Rocket and Solid Rocket Plants respectively.

Following a tour of the sprawling 18,000 acre facility, the visitors from Maine met with commodity buyers who spelled out Aerojet's procurement needs and learned of the capabilities of the visiting firms.

J. H. Parsons, Aerojet's Assistant Director of Material, said: "I'm confident that as a result of this interchange of information we are going to see the Maine business firms get a larger share of our subcontract dollars."

He reported: "During the first six months of 1962, Aerojet awarded nearly $73 million in subcontracts to small business and over $23 million went to small business firms in the nine Northeastern States." The delegation members expressed the hope that Maine firms would work aggressively to get what they termed "their fair share" of this business.

Parsons said he is looking forward to doing more business with firms in Maine. He said: "Aerojet is vitally interested in the constant expansion of our sources of supply and the development of new capabilities, with the increased competitive base which they create. If such sources are available, or can be developed, in the State of Maine, our full support and cooperation will be provided."

The enthusiasm was echoed by the delegation members. Aerojet, the nation's leading firm devoted to the development and production of liquid and solid fuel rocket engines, is supplying rocket propulsion for such missile and space programs as Minuteman, Titan, Polaris, Hawk, Skybolt, Tartar and Scout. The firm maintains on a corporate-wide basis an aggressive and comprehensive small business program. Particular emphasis is given those concerns located in an area President Kennedy has designated as one in which a labor surplus exists.

The visitors were Dr. Ben Millard, S. D. Warren Co., Westbrook; H. T. Hawkes, Southworth Machine Co., Portland; Harmon Horworth, The Portland Co., Portland; R. L. Sutton, Jr., Maine Machine Products Co., South Paris; Thomas A. Pakenham, Prosperity Co., South Portland; William Chelf, Kenville & Eager Co., Kennebunk; George Hurley, Portland Copper & Tank Works, South Portland; Robert Pressnell, The Baker Co., Biddeford; and Charles White, senior DED industrial representative.

MEDICARE AND SOCIAL SECURITY

Lost sight of in the debate about cost of putting medical care for the aged under Social Security is the dollar cost to the individual, Tax Foundation, Inc., says.

For example, a 20-year-old entering the work force next year and working 45 years will pay $3,798 into Social Security at present rates. If care for the aged is added, he will pay out $11,199.50 during his 45 year career.

The measure's proponents estimate benefit payments and administrative expenses will be about $1.1 billion for the first year. This will rise to about $2.6 billion by the year 2006, they add.

Opponents have come up with different estimates. They say the first year cost will be $2.2 billion, and that by 1983 the cost will be $5.4 billion.

Mrs. Gayland Dooen was appointed chairman of the Entries Committee for the Miss Oxford County Pageant which will be held in Norway in April, 1963.

All Jaycee Wives were notified of an invitation to attend a Seminar with the Topsham Jaycees at Topsham, Nov. 29.

20 SECONDS with the NAZARENE

While thoughts of Thanksgiving linger with us, these words of Christ, the Bread of Life, offer food for thought, "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." To consider only the needs of the body while ignoring the hunger pangs of the eternal soul is to invite spiritual starvation.

(Quotation from Jesus, Mat. 4:4)

A Tribute

Dr. S. S. Greenleaf

To say that northern New England mourns the loss of Dr. Greenleaf is not an exaggeration. His grateful friends were legion and his benefactions were far-flung.

The sheaves of floral tributes and the throngs of young and old calling in love and respect at the funeral home bore testimony to the feeling of bereavement that filled all hearts.

On countless occasions there are few homes that have not known him—his sympathy and efficient dignity has made less bitter and turbulent the grief of despairing mourners. Death, in his care, assumed the right of beauty and kindness and release from pain.

None could draw a dividing line between the comforting words spoken by the presiding minister and the gentle, final ministrations of this master funeral director. His very presence gave courage.

In a capacity as doctor of animals his skill and responsibility brought assurance and relief to all who sought his help. He answered all appeals and travelled far and near in all kinds of New England weather to treat horses and herds and precious pets. Here again he was tops in his profession, kind, efficient and patient.

His grave is in sylvan Woodland Cemetery.

Sunlight and bird song, beauty, above you.

Rest, kindest neighbor, you've well earned the boon.

Peace is around you, quiet beside you,

Ancient the pines with their soothing old tune.

Mrs. Yates Writes from Florida NEWRY

This is an account of a trip taken Nov. 4 by Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Blake, their daughter, Mrs. Kaye Blossley and her daughter, Justine, and Russell Yates. The Blakes' and Yates' address is 2721 S. W. 13 Ave., Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

We left right after dinner and went down below Miami to the "Parrot Jungle." What a beautiful place! It cost $1.85 to get in but worth every penny of it. It's a cement walk down through the woods and jungle all the way. You go into this building through an archway—get your ticket then go on. All along the way are cages of different birds that we poor devils up north never dreamed of. All kinds of parrots and so many others. Along the way were little markers telling the names of the different plants that were in bloom, too. There were seats along the paths.

The pens were made of wire and about 6 feet tall. Any of the birds that would bite were so marked and you were told not to touch. Each cage had a plate on it telling what it was and there were things along the way where you put in a nickel or a dime and you got seeds—mostly sunflower—to feed the birds. There were flowers all the way which for a guess was at least a mile. In one place was a waterfall with a pool below with a lot of fish in it. Probably the biggest ones were 8 or 9 inches long—mostly gold colored with different colored speckles on them. There was a picnic place along the way and along another shady strip was a rock pen with two big alligators in it.

The parrots were out all over the place flying around and such beautiful colors. We saw one peacock with his tail spread—so lovely! We also saw crowned pigeons from New Guinea. They reminded me of the guinea hens we have only much larger and had a 45 inch feathery top-knot. A very pretty bird, but odd. Then we saw regular parakeets and Mina birds. One was mocking Justine as she laughed and squealed.

This year . . .

They would talk quite a bit. But they didn't look like the Mina birds you see in the stores. These had yellow on their heads.

As we neared the latter part of the trip we came out in a big open space where there were several kinds of cranes and ducks in a big field—I'll call it, with a pond in the center and there were about 75 flamingoes in there, too. All surrounded with the lovely shrubbery. I wish I was good at describing things so you could get a better picture of it—in fact wish you could have been there to see it with your own two eyes. Another pool we saw, the water was spouting up out of the middle of this pile of rocks about 8 or 10 feet (the water was) and that had ducks and geese of all kinds in it.

Then you came out to a place where there were seats and down front a table and an open place. Here they put on a bird show. The one we saw started at 3:45 and lasted 3/4 of an hour. That fellow must be loaded with patience to train those birds like he has. The macaws are the biggest parrots. Their biggest one raised the American flag to open the show. He took him off his perch with what looked like a broom-handle and stood him on this table in the middle of the open space in front of the seats. The flag, a small one, was tucked inside an aluminum tube and he pulled on a piece of fine rope until he had the flag at the top of the pole. After each act he gave them each a peanut. He talked about them all the time but those that were on the loose made such a racket that you couldn't understand all he said. He told us that when they had got these birds here (or the parrots) they cost them nearly $1,000. He had two two-wheeled carts with a pole in them and had a couple parrots run a race.

He had one talk on the telephone—a couple that slid on a slippery slide 4 times each and one was trained to walk on the fourth slide, so he made him stand on his head for punishment, then he slid down the slide O. K. He had one that played poker so he got someone one of the crowd to come play with him and naturally the parrot won. He had one pump water from a tiny pump on the table then he took the tiny pail in his bill and carried it the length of the table to the trainer. He had one that would count and I can't tell all that they would do. They each have a house of their own to go into nights and they each have a name and he calls them to their house by name at night-time. He has a routine he puts the flamingoes through but it was getting so late we didn't see that.

I enjoyed it and hope we can go again before we go back home. When we left that place, we had to go out through a gift shop—that sure make you

HEALTH AND SAFETY TIPS FROM THE AMA

Hunting Safety:

The fall hunting season is here again and millions of Americans of all ages and both sexes are taking to the woods and fields, gun in hand, bent on bringing back a loaded game bag.

Firearms, from a single-shot .22 calibre rifle to a heavy big game weapon to a fast-shooting automatic scattergun, are designed to kill birds and animals. They also can kill or wound humans.

Each fall several hundred hunters don't return alive and thousands of others return with a load of bird shot or a rifle bullet to be dug out. Behind almost every hunting accident is one cause, carelessness.

Before you pull the trigger, know what you're firing at, says Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association. The hunter who blazes away at everything that moves runs a big risk of bagging a fellow hunter.

Never cross over or through it.

a fence or climb a tree with a loaded gun. It might fall and discharge. Unload first and reload after crossing. Don't shoot at a hard, flat surface. Ricocheting bullets can carry long distances with killing power.

Keep guns away from children. Never leave a weapon unattended without unloading it. Store guns and ammunition beyond the reach of youngsters, preferably under lock and key.

Always carry a gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble. Keep the safety catch on until ready to shoot. Always be sure the barrel is clear of obstructions. A barrel clogged with mud or snow may burst.

Guns and alcohol don't mix at all. If you like a nip around camp, wait until you're through hunting for the day and all weapons are unloaded and in cases.

Treat guns with respect at all times. They may be loaded, despite all precautions. Thus never point a weapon at something unless you plan to shoot it.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH WOMEN'S FELLOWSHIP

The Women's Fellowship of the West Parish Congregational Church met in Garland Chapel on Wednesday, Nov. 14, following a pot luck supper in the dining room served by the ladies in Circle 3.

The meeting opened with devotions by Mrs. Murray Thurston.

It was voted to change the date of the annual meeting from January to May, with the new officials to take over in the beginning of the fall season. It is felt that this will make a better coordination with the work of the church, as well as the state and national women's fellowships.

Mrs. Norris Brown reported that plans are nearly completed for the Christmas Sale which will be held at Garland Chapel and the church basement on Thursday, Dec. 6 from 2-5 p. m. with all Circles participating. Special emphasis is being made on items of interest to young folks. The different tables will be as follows:

Gift Table and General Chairman, Mrs. Norris Brown, Circle 2; White Elephant Table, Mrs. Richard Waldron, Circle 2; Children's Table, Mrs. Henry Hastings, Circle 2; Aprons, Mrs. Theodore Emery, Circle 4; Candy Table, Ina Mundt and Gloria Winslow, Circle 1; Greens, Mrs. Celia Gorman, Circle 3; Food, Madelyn Hunt, Circle 3; Fish Pond, Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler and Mrs. Ruth Kittredge, Circle 1; Tea, Mrs. Clifford Laws and Mrs. Lincoln Fiske, assisted by Mrs. Margaret Trinward and the 7th and 8th Grade Sunday School girls.

Following the meeting the members enjoyed an interesting and inspiring talk by Mrs. Eugene Wakeley of Topsham, state president of the Women's Fellowship.

MAGAZINE CITES MAINE'S POPULARITY WITH CHEMICAL FIRMS

Maine's growing popularity among chemical processing firms was noted Saturday in nationally circulated Chemical Week Magazine.

The McGraw-Hill publication pointed to "tub thumping" by the Department of Economic Development and other government and civic groups as an aid in awakening interest in the state as a place to build new plants. The article listed ample land, water and manpower as the basic lures.

Among the expanding firms, according to Chemical Week, was American Cyanamid, Sanford; Morningstar - Paisley, Houlton; Northern Chemical Industries, Searport; and Marine Colloids, Rockland. A photo of the Searport plant was included in the four-page story.

The magazine printed estimates that 47 chemical producers in Maine turn out products valued at more than $20 million, and employ more than 300 workers earning $2.6 million per year.

Gov. John H. Reed was quoted as saying: "Although our old-line industrial activity (paper, foods, leather, lumber, textiles) remains the nucleus of our economy, the arrival of chemical firms using products from the sea and construction of light metal fabricating plants and electronics firms are becoming more significant in the state of Maine."

"Maine is growing industrially because of its healthy local labor relations, production efficiency and superb living conditions." The Governor also told Chemical Week that industrialists were interested in Maine's super highways and fast air, rail and motor truck service in close proximity to industrial parks.
